This Health and Human Services Resources Directory for Doña Ana, Luna, and Hidalgo Counties has been developed to improve referrals to health and human services for the most vulnerable populations residing in New Mexico’s U.S.-México border counties, including, but not limited to, low-income families and indigents, the uninsured and underinsured, the elderly, and migrants and immigrants. The directory is also intended to serve as a reference for health and human services providers, local and state government agencies, and advocacy and civic service organizations for cross-referral of clients and as a resource to improve safety-net services for those most in need.

As part of efforts to improve awareness of and access to available health and human services, this directory serves as a foundational reference in the development of a toll-free 211 Referral Service for Southern New Mexico. The initiative will be facilitated by the New Mexico Department of Health, Office of Border Health (NM-OBH) beginning in 2014, in partnership with local and state government agencies, local and regional health and human services providers, and civic service and advocacy organizations. The 211 Referral Service will also be accessible by Internet.

The production of this directory was carried out under the Prevention and Health Promotion among Vulnerable Populations along the U.S.-México Border activity, an initiative of the U.S.-México Border Health Commission. Funding was provided through a grant awarded to the NM-OBH by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Office of Global Affairs and administered through the U.S.-México Border Health Commission (Grant No. GHSGH110021-02-02).

In the preparation of this directory, an effort was made to consult all other existing directories, current and/or outdated, published previously for Doña Ana, Luna, and Hidalgo Counties, as well as any available statewide references. Where necessary, citations were updated using information provided by organizations indicated within or that appear on respective websites. In any dynamic region, such as the border counties of Southwestern New Mexico, new provider and advocacy organizations may be established at any time and existing contact information may change.

The NM-OBH gratefully acknowledges the assistance of the Doña Ana County Health and Human Services Department, Luna County Community Health Council, and Hidalgo Medical Services for assisting with the directory citations. In addition, Andre Walker, NM-OBH Graphics and Media Design Specialist, was responsible for assembling, diagramming, and conducting quality control of the directory.

As a courtesy, the directory’s organizers request that contact information on any new organization or changes in existing contact information be submitted to the NM-OBH to ensure the directory is continually updated on the OBH website at nmborderhealth.org/HHSDirectory-DonaAnaLunaandHidalgoCounties.shtml. Please send any changes or error corrections by E-mail to andre.walker@state.nm.us.

Basic Human Needs:
Programs that furnish survival level resources, including food, housing, material goods, transportation, and utilities, for individuals with low or fixed incomes, the homeless, older adults and/or people with disabilities who are otherwise unable to adequately provide for themselves and their families. Also included are related services available to the community at large, such as education, child care, sanitation, emergency services, and health care.

Social Services:
Services provided by government and non-governmental organizations to help those in need and to aid those in crisis, to include education, food subsidies, health care, subsidized housing, and mental and behavioral health care, among other essential and public services. These services can be temporary or long-term. Those in need may include children and their families; senior citizens; and/or people with physical and learning disabilities, sensory impairment, or mental health problems.

Utility Service Connection, Repair, & Assistance:
Organizations responsible for processing utility connection orders; installing, maintaining, and repairing necessary equipment; activating service; accepting and responding to outage reports or other problems; reading meters or otherwise measuring usage; and/or billing and collection. Some agencies provide assistance with paying utility bills, such as water, gas, sewage, and electricity. Programs may pay all or a portion of expenses for people whose utility service has been or is at risk of being shut off. Payment assistance programs may include eligibility requirements, i.e., age, income, disability, need, or other.

Housing:
Programs that provide access to low income and/or subsidized rental housing, helping to make rental housing more readily available to homeless people and/or low-income individuals and families; programs that can provide rental or mortgage payment assistance. Some complexes or housing units may be reserved for low-income older adults, people with disabilities, and/or other special populations. Other programs include equity programs that provide assistance in buying a house—in some instances, applicants will design and construct their own houses; programs that offer subsidized home improvement assistance (i.e., weatherization), and programs that provide financial counseling to prevent foreclosure and mortgage loan default.

Physical & Mental Health:
Services for those who seek attention or treatment for a physical, mental, or behavioral health problem. Health care centers include clinics, hospitals, and laboratories that provide different levels of service and treatment depending on the need of the patient and the level of care required. Most health care providers require an appointment, but some provide walk-in services. Calling ahead is always advised when seeking medical attention at any health care facility. In cases of emergency, always call 911 and/or head to the nearest emergency room.

Medicare & Medicaid Enrollment Services:
Beginning January 1, 2014, the new name of the New Mexico Medicaid program will be Centennial Care. Centennial Care services will be provided by four managed care organizations (MCOs). These services include physical health, behavioral health, long-term care, and community benefits. For more information on Centennial Care, go to www.hsd.state.nm.us/CentennialCare/index.html. Those interested in applying for Centennial Care coverage can or apply in person at a local Income Support Division office, by fax, or by mail. To download an application, go to www.hsd.state.nm.us/isd/apply.html. For application questions, call HSD's new Medicaid Expansion Hotline toll-free at 1-855-637-6574 or for general questions, call 1-888-997-2583.

Diverse Assistance for Children & Adults:
This section is meant to provide information on diverse services children and adults can access depending on their needs. These services include shelters; children’s programs (e.g., after school programs, clubs); recreation (public and nonprofit agencies); child care; educational services (e.g., schools); family and adult programs (e.g., thrift stores); senior assisted living and nursing homes.

Shelter:
Programs that seek to meet the basic shelter needs of the community by providing temporary shelter for people who are in emergency situations, home improvement programs, housing location assistance, or other housing alternatives.

Child Care (Day Care):
Child care centers and residential child care providers can offer care and education to young children (infants, toddlers, and preschoolers) whose parents either work during the day or want to socialize their children at a young age. Child care centers vary on the level of day care they provide as well as the ages of children they accept into their programs. Child care assistance is available to low-income families through government programs. Please call ahead to find out if a day care center or provider is licensed and if they accept child care assistance subsidies.

Senior Assisted Living:
Programs for older adults (senior citizens) with developmental disabilities, sensory impairments, physical disabilities, emotional problems, or multiple disabilities who do not require 24-hour supervision. These in-home programs provide a highly individualized, coordinated system of services and supports which facilitates the ability for these individuals to live in their own homes or apartments, to hire and supervise paid caregivers, to work in the community, to participate in community activities, and to interact with non-disabled neighbors. In-home assistance programs may also provide meal preparation, housekeeping, and respite care, among other services.

Nursing Homes:
Residential care for individuals who require continual nursing care and have significant deficiencies with daily living activities. Nursing aides and skilled nurses are usually available 24 hours a day. Residents include the elderly and younger adults with physical or mental disabilities. Services provided may include physical, occupational, and other rehabilitative therapies following an accident or illness. Some nursing homes assist people with special needs, such as Alzheimer patients.
